

* * *

Positive Neuroplasticity Training (PNT) Professional Course (PC) in Positive Neuroplasticity Terms of Use

People who register for the Positive Neuroplasticity Training or for the Professional Course in Positive Neuroplasticity (or both of these) agree to these Terms of Use:

- I am 18 or older (or a teenager whose parent or guardian has registered for me and emailed specific permission to pnt@rickhanson.net for me to take the PNT).
- I understand that these are educational workshops – not treatment for any physical or mental health condition – and that no promises are offered as to what I gain or how I am affected. I take responsibility for my own experience in the workshop(s), and I am able to manage my reactions to the information presented, to the experiential practices, and to other participants I interact with. I understand that Rick Hanson does not have a therapeutic or clinical relationship with me, and is not treating me for any condition.
- I understand that any information conveyed to Rick Hanson may be read by members of his staff. I also recognize that information that I share with other participants in the workshop(s) might be shared by them with others. Overall, I understand that no promise of confidentiality is given to me regarding information I communicate.
- I recognize that all written texts offered in the workshop(s), including the Handbook in Positive Neuroplasticity and the Powerpoint slides, are copyrighted by Rick Hanson, who reserves all rights.
- FOR INDIVIDUALS ATTENDING THE IN-PERSON WORKSHOP(S): I understand that these workshops are being recorded and transmitted via livestream, with the recordings available for access by livestream participants for at least six months after the workshops end. Additionally, these recordings will likely be edited and offered in some form, including products for sale, by Rick Hanson in the future. Consequently, my voice will be heard in the livestream or recordings if I make a comment or ask a question. Similarly, my face will be shown in the livestream or recordings unless I sit in a designated section of the room (toward the back, out of view of the cameras). I understand these facts, and by registering for the workshop(s), I consent to the collection and use of my images and voice as described here.